

PROCESSING A PROVISIONAL VOTER

A Provisional Ballot is the same ballot used by all voters on Election Day. However, for Provisional Voters, there is a question regarding their eligibility which requires them to provide additional information. This additional information is obtained through the completion of the form printed on the Provisional Envelope. The voter's ballot is sealed inside this envelope and segregated on Election Day. Board of Elections staff will verify the information provided on the Provisional Envelope following the election. If a voter is determined to be eligible, the ballot is counted. While these ballots are not tallied on Election Night, valid ballots are always counted in the final Official Results.

Processing the Voter

Greet the voter and ask for the slip printed from the EPB at the Check-In Table.
